group in Palestine again opened the veil of Israeli military power. Despite being hit with a major attack by Hamas in the first week of October 2023 to reclaim Palestinian land from Zionist occupation, the country is now rattling Gaza with its military equipment. In the major attack last weekend, it was recorded that about 5,000 rockets were launched by attack that resulted in a declaration of war. As a result, the shooting action has occurred until now that it has claimed many civilian casualties. History has actually recorded that Israel as a state proclaimed in 1948 on the land of Hamas and entered Israeli territory, causing casualties. However, Israel retaliated against the

On this basis, according to Yaakov Katz in The Weapons Wizard: How Israel Became a High-Tech Military Superpower (2017), Israel began to exercise independence in the military sector.

For Tel Aviv, being in a 'ocean of anger' makes the country's defense sector very good. If at any time attacked, then the country will not just collapse and can counterattack the enemy.

So, David Ben-Gurion's first order was not to focus on building the economy, but building the Israel Defense Forces (IDF). Long story short, the presence of the IDF was positively welcomed by the US side. Because, Uncle Sam has an interest there and wants to make Israel a shield to dispel the rise of the recipient of aid from the US since World War II.

Al Jazeera wrote that from 1946 to 2023, the US had sent military aid worth US$ 124 billion or Rp 1,946 Trillion. Of course this does not take into account the transfer of technological knowledge that cannot be calculated economically.

Thanks to the large amount of assistance, it is not surprising that the IDF is transforming into the largest modern military in the world. At this point, the IDF began to 'sell itself'.
